

Project: Rural change and anthropological knowledge in post-colonial India: A comparative 'restudy' of F.G. Bailey, Adrian C. Mayer and David Pocock

Reference: ES/I02123X/1

Depositor: Edward Simpson

This project 'restudied' three villages in India that had first been studied by anthropologists in the 1950s. Some of the original research materials dating from the 1950s are archived here. Other materials relate to the methodology of the project and the resurvey of the three villages undertaken in 2012.

The material is divided across seven main file headings. File formats include text, graphic, sound and film:

File: General_Project_Documentation: Project overview and description; letters of support/informed consent from Adrian Mayer and F.G. Bailey; bibliographic notes; audio of project methodological and 'restudy' seminars; conference discussion of the project in Lisbon 2012; project generated maps of the villages

File: Adrian_Mayer: long film interview on his research career

File: F.G._Bailey: Original 1950s field notes archive; film interview 2011 on his research and career; film interview 2012; photographic collection of Orissa in the 1950s

File: Resurvey_Sundarana_Gujarat: materials collected during the restudy of the village: field materials (samples); census; genealogies; film

File: Project_Forms: Informed consent; questionnaire and survey forms as used in Jamgod and Sundarana
