

Inclusion of recordings in databases for research purposes: Information sheet and Informed Consent Form for participants

Please complete this form after you have read the information and/or listened to an explanation about the research.

Title of Project: Speaker-controlled Variability in Children's Speech in Interaction
This study has been approved by the UCL Research Ethics Committee [Project ID Number: 0534/002]

Thank you for taking part in this project.

The recordings you and your friend are making with us are very important for research, not just the project we are carrying out, but to other researchers too.

For this reason, we would like to make a database on the internet with all the recordings we collect. A database is a bit like a library, you can take recordings out and look at them, but they don't belong to you. This means that other researchers at UCL and other universities could study the recordings.

We would only store your recordings and a written version of your conversations in the database. Your name or personal details like your address will not be there. The recordings can only be used for research.

We would also like to put your recordings and transcriptions on another online database called ChildES (<http://childes.psy.cmu.edu/>). The database is used by researchers who study how language develops in children and young people. Like our database, people are only allowed to use it for research.

If you are happy for us to put your recordings on the databases, you can sign this consent form. You can ask us to take your recording off at any time.

You can still take part in the research even if you do not want your recording to be in the databases.

If you have any questions about this, please ask the researcher before deciding whether to agree to it. You can keep a copy of this consent form.
