

PROJECT TEAM

The Institute of Education (University of London) and the Guildhall School of Music & Drama are collaborating for the MUSIC for LIFE PROJECT.

You will meet one of the project team, either Maria or Hilary.

Maria has been performing as a solo singer, oboist and chorister for many years. She has also participated in several recordings of Greek traditional songs. She is currently working as a researcher at the Institute of Education and as choral conductor of children's choirs.

Hilary has worked in education for many years teaching music and psychology and, more recently, researching. She continues to teach the piano, singing and theory of music when she can fit it in, and she has dabbled in the 'cello, organ and flute.

We very much hope that you would like to participate in the

MUSIC for LIFE PROJECT.

This leaflet contains information about the project so that you know what the project is about, who is involved, and what you would be asked to do.

You will also find information about other aspects,
such as the celebration event and webpage.

Join in! An event will be held as a celebration for all those involved in the musical activities at the centres participating in the Music for Life Project. If you have access to a computer...

Read all about it!

There is a webpage for the Music for Life Project.
