

Your cognitive state.

It is important that you are ALERT for the experiment. Your brain does NOT function in the same way when you are in any of these states:

- Sleep deprived (e.g., after being out the night before/studying very late)
- Hungover/inebriated after being at a party/out the night before
- Tired from work/lectures/tutorials
- Ill for whatever reason
- Stressed/upset for any reason

If you are in ANY of the above states when you arrive for your session, you will be TURNED AWAY and asked to RESCHEDULE.

To avoid any disruption, please call the experimenter BEFORE your session to reschedule if you need to.

If you have an early appointment for the next day, but want to go out/work very late the night before, that's absolutely fine – just contact the experimenter and let us know that you want to reschedule.

We would MUCH rather you reschedule than turn up in any of these states.

Turning up on time.

Please turn up ON TIME for your appointments. The schedule in the lab is tight and if one person is late then it makes everyone else late. If you are going to be late, PLEASE text/phone the experimenter AHEAD OF TIME.
