

10th October 2014

Dear Parent/Guardian,

Children, young people and flooding project (Lancaster University & Save the Children)

Thank you for your interest in being involved in this project. We are delighted that you and/or your child wants to take part. This letter is to give you a bit more information about the first workshop that will take place on Monday, 20th October 2014.

The workshop will last a full school day and will begin and end at XX Primary School, although we will be based for most of the day at the XX arts centre in XX. During the morning the group will go together for a walk of about 30 minutes (or less if it's wet weather) around the local area and in the afternoon the children will be asked to engage in various creative arts activities.

Children involved in the workshop should arrive at school and be collected at the end of the day at their usual times. If you are a parent who has volunteered to support the workshops, please can you come to the school hall for the start of the workshop at 9:30am. The day will end back at the school by 3pm.

Please could you and/or your child bring a packed lunch, along with suitable clothing/footwear for both outdoor walking and indoor artwork activities. We will provide everyone with a drink and snack during the morning break.

A coach has been arranged to transport everyone to and from the XX. XX, the Class 3 teacher, will attend the workshop throughout the day.

We are really looking forward to working with you in South Ferriby and thank you again for your participation in this project. Please get in touch with the school if you have any questions.

Kind regards,

Amanda Bingley, Alison Lloyd Williams, Maggie Mort and Marion Walker – Lancaster University,
Virginia Howells and Sarah Smith – Save the Children UK
