Researcher Email: hannah.morgan@durham.ac.uk

Supervisor Email: ben.anderson@durham.ac.uk

Information on this method

As part of studying the everyday digital lives of asylum seekers, this method will be conducted in the setting of an informal interview. The aim of this method is to think about and reflect upon your everyday use of your smartphone.

The interview will be an informal conversation about your everyday smartphone use. You can request to see the questions in advance.

Notes will be taken throughout the interview. If consent is given, the interview will be recorded and transcribed. The recording will then be deleted immediately.

All data will remain confidential and anonymised. You may ask for the privacy notice for further detail.

Your participation and consent in the research

Participation in this study is voluntary. You are free to withdraw at any point. All data collected will be kept strictly confidential and used for research purposes only.

Please read the information above, and then read the points below.

Please feel free to ask any questions.

I..... agree to participate in the research outlined above.

I understand the purpose and nature of the study and have had the opportunity to ask questions for clarification. I am participating voluntarily. Where necessary, I give permission for myself to be recorded.
