CONTENT	First, we are going to ask you some questions about the people in your life, including both people that: • You interacted with in the spring or summer before starting university, and • People that you have interacted with since starting university. We will then ask for some more details about these people. At the end, we will then be drawing both networks for you to see.

CONTENT

For the duration of the interview, we will be referring to the people you interact with, or feel socially connected to, as your "social network".

More specifically, we will be grouping the people that you mention into two social network groups:

- Your "pre-university network" - people that you interacted with in the spring or summer before starting university.
- Your "current network" - people who you currently interact with since starting university.

Note, some people may fit into both of these groups.

Remember, all of your answers are confidential.

PROMPTS

1. To start, please write the names of anyone whom you have spent time with or socialised with in the last two weeks.

VARIABLE

name_last_two_weeks

VALUE

INTERVIEWER SCRIPT

It can be helpful to think about the people you have talked to for more than 5 minutes (more than just saying hello). This can be face-to-face, for example walking to campus, out for drinks or a cuppa, exercising, or just to catch-up.

It can also be remotely, such as by messaging, phone calls, or via social media.

You can also think about the people that you may share good, or bad, or interesting news with or whose advice you would seek when making decisions about important matters.

For example, you can include individuals who are friends, family or classmates. You might also want to consider people that you have a negative or difficult relationship with.

These should be people who you would have a 1-2-1 conversation with.

Remember, all your answers are confidential, and all the names you give will be replaced with ID numbers. We will not show anyone else what names you type, and we will delete all names for analysis. We only use these names to help you answer later questions (e.g. 'How old is John?').

If any names are repeated, please make these names distinct, i.e., "Hannah S" and "Hannah V".

VALUE

INTERVIEWER SCRIPT

For example, a friend or family member who does not live locally and you do not speak to often, but you would still consider yourself connected. If so, please provide their names below.

This could be people who fit in to your pre-university network, your current network, or both.

Again, examples could be friends, family or classmates. You might also want to consider people that you have a negative or difficult relationship with.

If any names are repeated, please make these names distinct, i.e., "Hannah S" and "Hannah V".

PROMPTS

1. Is there anyone else whom you frequently chat with, but you don't necessarily know well, or don't know their name?

VARIABLE

name_dont_know_well

VALUE

INTERVIEWER SCRIPT

For example, a teaching assistant for one of your modules? If so, please describe them below. This could also include people that you have an entirely online relationship with, such as a friend that you play online multiplayer games with.

This could be people who fit in to your pre-university network, your current network, or both.

Please be specific with the names here to help the participant remember. For example, instead of "tutor", write "tutor from social psychology module".
